HOW THINGS LOOK FROM OUR STAND POINT.

The Opinion of The Caucasian and the Opinion of others which we Can Endorse on the Various Topics of the Day.

Congressman John Henderson predicts a stormy session of Congress. He says that the greatest fights will be over the contested election cases and the Federal electon law. But we would like to ask what good is to come of this alone? The great fight should be made to relieve and improve the depressed condition of agriculture

The posthumous publication of Jefferson Davis's eulogistic article on Robert E. Lee is an event of political as well as literary interest. The paper contains no trace of these differences that are said to have from time to time existed between the Confederate President and the commander of the army of Northern Virginia. On the contrary, no warmer or more unreserved tribute has ever been paid the Southern General.

Twenty-five years is a short period in the history of nations but the last quarter of a century has seen great changes in the governmental forms of certain countries. At the birth of the present generation France was an empire and was trying to force a monarchical system upon Mexico, while the imperial government of Brazil seemed firmly established. France, Brazil and Mexico are now republics. The coming quarter of a century will in all likelihood witness greater progress in the conquest of tyranny by the ideas of enlightenment.—New York World.

The race problem is a very big problem as soon as people begin discussing it. But it is only discussed periodically. From time to time it comes to the surface and then disappears. One thing is worthy of note. When both races are thinking of other matters and are hard at work to better their material condition the problem ceases to be a problem—nobody thinks of it during a period of prosperous industry and good government. After all, anything can be turned into a problem by writing and talking about it. A great blessing to the country just now would be a philosopher who would convince both whites and blacks that their most important material problem is involved in earning an honest living, securing a home and laying up something for hard times. Business first and the race problem later.—Henry W. Grady.

The Governor of South Carolina, in his message to the Legislature, recommended legislation compelling the railroads of the State to provide separate cars for the races, and the upper branch of the Legislature has given favorable response to the recommendation. The Raleigh News & Observer advises similar legislation in this State and the Landmark lends its voice in the same behalf. Let the races be separated on the railroad trains. A colored person buying a first class ticket is entitled to first class accommodation; let them have it, but in another car. Make the accommodotions exactly the same for each of the races, then keep the negroes out of the white folks' car and the white folks out of the negroes' car. This arrangement would be perfectly just to both. The reform is one which must come. It only needs a little agitation to bring it about, for the advisability of it is so manifest as to need no argument.—Statesville Landmark.

DAVIS' LAST LETTER.

Written to the Committee of the Fayetteville Centennial.--Noble Sentiments and High Praise to North Carolinians.

On the 12th of April, 1776, the Continental Congress being then in session, and with much diversity of opinion as to the proper course to be pursued under the conditon of affairs, the N. C. Congress resolved "That the delegates for this colony in the Continental Congress be empowered to concur with the delegates of the other colonies in declaring independency and forming foreign alliances, reserving to the colony the sole and exclusive right of forming a constitution and laws for this colony," &c.

This, I believe, was the first distinct declaration for the separation from Great Britain and State independence, and there is much besides priority to evoke admiration. North Carolina had by many acts of resistance to the British authorities provoked their vengeance, yet she dared to lead in defence; but no danger, however dread, in the event of her isolation could make her accept co operation save with the reservation of supremacy in regard to her own constitution and laws—the sacred principle of 'community independence' and government founded on the consent of the governed.

After having done her whole duty in the war for independence and become a free, sovereign and independent State, she entered into the Confederation with these rights and powers recognized and unabridged. When experience proved the Articles ofConfederation to be inadequate to the needs of good government she agreed to a general convention for their amendment. The convention did not limit its labors to amendment of the articles, but proceeded to form a new plan of government and, adhering to the cardinal principle that government must be derived from the consent of the governed, submitted the new plan to the people of the several States to be adopted or rejected as each by and for itself should decide.

It is to be remembered that the Articles of Confederation for the "United States of America" declared that the Union shall be perpetual, and that no alteration should be made in the said articles unless it shoud "be confirmed by the Legislature of every State." True to her creed of State sovereignity North Carolina recognized the power of such States as chose to do so to withdraw from the Union; and by the same token her own unqualified right to decide whether or not she would subscribe to the proposed compact for a more perfect Union, and in which it is to be observed the declaration for perpetuity was omitted. In the hard school of experience she had learned the danger to popular liberty from a government which could claim to be the final judge of its own powers. She had fought a long and devastating war for State independence, and was not willing to put in jeopardy the priceless jewel she had gained. After a careful examination it was concluded that the proposed constitution did not sufficiently guard against usurpation by the usual resort to implication of powers not expressly granted, and declined to act upon the general assurance that the deficiency would soon be supplied by the needful amendments. In the meantime State after State had acceded to the new Union until the necessary number had been obtained for the establishment of the "constitution between the States to ratifying the same." With characteristic self-reliance North Carolina confronted the prospect of isolation, and calmly resolved, if so it must be, to stand alone rather than to subject to hazard her most prized possession—community independence. Confiding in the security offered by the first ten amendments to the constitution, especially the 9th and 10th of the series, North Carolina voluntarily acceded to the new Union. The tenth amendment restricted the functions of the Federal Government to the exercise of the powers delegated to it by the States, all of which were expressly stipulated. Beyond that limit nothing could be done rightfully. If covertly done under color of law or by reckless usurpation of an extraneous majority, which, feeling power, should disregard right, had the State no peaceful remedy? Could she as a State in a confederation, the bed rock of which is the consent of its members, be bound by a compact which others broke to her injury? Had her reserved rights no other than a paper barrier to protect them against invasion?

Surely the heroic patriots and wise statesmen of North Carolina by their sacrifices, utterances and deeds have shown what their answer would have been to these questions if they had been asked on the day when in convention they ratified the amended constitution of the United States. Her exceptional delay in ratification marks her vigilant care for the right she had early asserted and so steadily maintained. Of her it may be said, as it was of Sir Walter Scott in his youth, that he was "always the first in a row and last out of it."

In the peaceful repose which followed the Revolution all her interests were progressive. Farms, school-houses and towns rose over a subdued wilderness, and with a mother's joy she saw her sons distinguished in the public service by intelligence, energy and perseverance and by the integrity without which all other gifts are but as tinsel. North Carolina grew apace in all which constitutes power until 1812 she was required, as a State of the Union, to resist aggressions on the high seas in the visitation of American merchant vessels and the impressment of American seamen by the armed cruisers of Great Britain. These seamen generally belonged to the New England States. None, probably were North Carolinians. But her old spirit was vital still—the cause of one was the cause of all, as she announced when Boston was under embargo.

At every roll call for the common defense she answered "Here!" When the blessed peace returned she stacked her arms, for which she had no prospective use. Her love for her neighbors had been tried and not found wanting in the time of their need. Why should she anticipate hostility from them?

The envy, selfish jealousy and criminal hate of a Cain did not come near to her heart. If not to suspect such vice in others be indiscreet credulity, it is a knightly virtue and part of an honest nature. In many years of military and civil service it has been my good fortune to know the sons of North Carolina under circumstances of trial, and I could make a list of those deserving honorable mention which would too far extend this letter, already, I fear, tediously long.

Devotion to principle, self-reliance and inflexible adherence to resolution when adopted, accompaied by conservative caution, were the characteristics displayed in both her colonial and State history. All these qualities were exemplified in her action on the day the anniversary of which you commemorate.

If there be any, not probably to be found with you, but possibly elsewhere, who shall ask "How then could North Carolina cosistently enact her ordinance of secession in 1861?" he is referred to the declaration of independence of 1776, to the articles of confederation of 1777 for a perpetual union of the States and the secession of the States from the Union so established; to the treaty of 1783, recognizing the independence of the States severally and distinctively; to the constitution of the United States with the first ten amendments; to the time honored resolutions of 1798 and 1799, that from these one and all he may learn that the State, having won her indpendence by heavy sacrifices, had never surrendered it nor had ever attempted to delegate the inalienable rights of the people.

How valiantly her sons bore themselves in the war between the States the lists of killed and wounded testify. She gave them a sacrificial offering on the altar of the liberties their fathers had won and had left as an inheritance to their posterity. Many sleep far from the land of their nativity. Peace to their ashes. Honor to their memory and the mother who bore them. Faithfully,

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Our Farmers' Column.

SOMETHING INTERESTING TO THOSE WHO TILL THE SOIL.

"There is no material progress that is well based and permanent, without agricultural progress."

Is there no remedy or at least preventive for hog cholera? Do our physicians, chemists and scientists give it up? If this scourge can be escaped our farmers are independent. But if we cant raise hogs, we can raise corn, peas, potatoes, rye, oats, etc., in abundance.

Sweet Potatoes for Market.

Sweet potatoes sell in the northern markets for about twice as much as they do here. There is no land better suited to potato raising than ours, and there is money in raising them at the price they sell for here. Then why not let the sweet potato be a part, at least, of the truck farming of this section? But the yankee taste is not as fine as ours. We prefer the yam because it is the best potato known to the world, but the yankee will not have them. The dry red Spanish or the Nansemond is the potato he prizes the highest. Then let us raise this potato for shipment. Seed for this potato can be gotten from T. W. Wood & Son, Richmond, Va.

The Kansas farmer sits by the cheerful light of his corn fire, with corn at 11 cents per bushel and thanks his Creator for the blessings of a high protective tariff which gave him a home market.—Wil. Star.

Farmers' Institutes.

The Commissioner of Agriculture takes this method of communicating with the farmers of the State, to notify them that he will gladly co-operate with them or any of them as to the holding of farmers' institutes in any section of the State; and also, in this connection, will state that one or more of the professors of the Agricultural College will assist in the holding of these institutes. We intend holding many in the State the coming year (1890), and will do so to the the profit of the section in which they are held, if we only have the co operation of the farmers and others interested. It is our intention to make these farmer schools (these institutes are simply schools) entertaining as well as instructive to all who participate.

JOHN ROBINSON,
Commissioner.

Manure Without Money.

The following article is clipped from the Southern Cultivator and Dixie Farmer. Our readers will see this is precisely on the same line as the policy we have been advocating through these columns now for more than a year:

It seems impossible in these times of scarcity that we shall have anything without money. It is certainly true that we get nothing valuable without effort. If we were more impressed that time and effort are both money we might avail ourselves as farmers of more abundant resources. Whilst it may be true, therefore, that we may not be able literally to get manure for our farms without money, it is true, in a large measure, that we can get it without the direct expenditure of currency. It is further true that we can get it by the use of time and effort, at such seasons as these resources may not avail us as much income in any other way as money.

The main manurial resource of every farm should be the barnyard. As winter approaches, I feel that I can not do better on this line than to urge again the stabling of all stock; the profit will be found more than enough to cover expenses in the better condition of the stock and the saving of feed to keep them; the accumulation of manure will therefore be a clear profit, and, indeed, may be said to be manure without money.

This may be very much increased by he addition of matter, otherwise practically valueless, in the shape of straw, leaves, and any other kind of absorbent waste. By the incorporation of such waste the waste itself is made valuable and the character of the manure is improved, as it is prevented from deterioration by heating. In the use of help and teams at such times as they are not not needed on the farms, in the manipulation of matter that is considered useless, we can accumulate a great amount of fertilizing matter that will make more 'manure without money.'

Again, it has been generally supposed that the value of barnyard manure depends upon the animal altogether; and that the droppings of horses were necessarily more valuable than the droppings from cows. But just stable each one of your cows and you will find that the same feed will keep them in better condition and in addition the manure will equal horse stable manure. To neglect these resources and others that are available on the farms and look to a highly concentrated fertilizer in the markets to recover our lands and make our crops is hurtfully extravagant. It brings with it no vegetale matter or humus—nature's way of making soil; it gives its help to the immediate yield and it is gone with the money that brought it Barnyard manure comes to stay and stay with profit. I have seen its helpful effect on a lot for ten successive years. Its cost was nominal; its yield was abundant.

At the risk of being charged with frequent repetition, I want to insist upon small grain, grass, and peas as a bountiful source of fertilization, not only without cost, but accompanied with actual profit.

The season for making manure, as I have inicated, is now well upon us. Economy successfully practiced begins in time; every opportunity missed carries with it a corresponding waste, and every waste must effect, hurtfully, every interest which its prudent use could help. For the coming season let us lay well our plans to make "manure without money."

OUR PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

Prof. Winston of the University has written a letter to the State Chronicle from which we make the following extracts:

The public schools and especially the graded schools have recently engaged the public mind somewhat to to the exclusion of private schools. While it is well to develop our public school system to the highest point of efficiency, yet we can never dispense with private schools. Just now they are the most efficient factors in educating our youth; and for the past century and a half they have given to North Carolina nearly all its intellectual culture and refinement. * * * The inadequacy of our public schools to furnish education is recognized even by the negro and the friends of negro education. * *

We need all the public schools and especially all the graded schools we can get; but we are not likely to get all we need. The race question is a great barrier to education; and it is very unfortunate that this generation is trammelled in its educational progress by race prejudice no less than by poverty. In the mind of the average man the education of the negro is a burden, a menace and a sore. Meanwhile the negro is taking all the education he can get from the public schools, and his wealthy friends are helping him along with private schools. It is no longer exageration to say that the negro, who represents our lowest social grade and poorest class in property, has better opportunities for education in North Carolina than the average poor white child. I do not desire to appeal to race prejudice, but simply call attention to facts. There is room for charity here, and our men of means may look long and far to find a better object of charity! * * We must foster our private schools. They are doing good work. * * Under present circumstances our public school system does not furnish adequate educational facilities for our people. It seems very difficult at present to greatly increase their efficiency. As soon as possible they should be made as highly efficient as possible. Meanwhile we must foster and improve our private schools, for upon them we are dependent for a large share of the work of educating our children.

A DISHONEST ACTING, BUT HONEST SPEAKING REPUBLICAN.

Let the Farmers Think and Ponder.

The Chicago Tribune, the Republican organ of the Northwest, is candid enough to make the following admission, an admission which many of his associates would be afraid to express:

"Where, then, is the remedy for the heavy burden of a 50 per cent tax on the necessaries of life, both imported and domestic? There is only one element or class able to remove it, and that Samson is sleeping in the lap of Delilah and will not awaken. I, of course, mean the farmers, the plundered, unprotected, twenty five million, geese-like farmers who permit themselves to be plucked of almost every feather by a hundred thousand protected monopolists. So long as the simple minded, bucolic class do not "kick" off the burdens laid upon them, Congress will not disturb the war taxes and the manufacturers' corresponding bounties. While the ploughmen act like Issacher's ass and crouch between the burdens, both will be kept on their backs. The fabricants live focalized in the cities, and plot and scheme for the promotion of their selfish interests and bring their united lobby influence to bear on members of Congress, whereas the farmers live isolated and scattered, and can't or don't combine in defence of their interests. Hence, they are unrepresented, unprotected and unconscious of what keeps them poor. They are captivated by the specious cry of "protection to American industry" though they get none of it; and of the value of the "protected" home market to them, as if prtoected monopolists eat any more than other men. Not until the verdant, imposed upon agriculturists wake up to to a realization of the confidence game being played upon them will the war tariff be reduced or reformed; but when will they get their eyes open and act? In your life time? Samson (the farmers) is under the spell of Delilah (the manufacturers) and his locks are shorn and he feels no strength to resist. Until the protected manufacturers themselves ask Congress to reduce their protection bounties in order to enable them to cheapen the processes of fabrication with a view to finding foreign markets for their surplus wares, and no relief from the heavy burden it imposes on the fool farmers and oppressed consumers. But when will that be?"

If the editor, Mr. Medill, could have been at the meeting of the Farmers in St. Louis in the first week in last December, he would have seen a mighty force in motion that will cause trouble or have a remedy. Yes, the farmer is awake and his persecutors had better beware. The day of retribution is coming.

WHY IS IT?

The editor of the Catlettsburg Democrat, Captain Thomas D. Marcum, late of the Union Army, has asked the question, "Why is it?" and comments as follows:

"Why is it that most of the ex-Confederates are stout and well preserved men for their age, while most of the ex-Union soldiers are broken down from their service and on the pension rolls or trying to get there. It is a fact that none will dispute that the Confederate army was not as well fed nor clothed as Union soldiers were; that they were physically more exposed than were the Union troops, yet most all of the ex-Union soldiers claim to be suffering from injuries and disease from their service, while the Confeds are robust and look as though they would be able for several years' good service in the field were it required of them. However, there are those who believe that the ex-Union solnierd would be stouter and more robust and prosperous in the various avocations of life if there were no pension attachment to alleged disabi lity incurred while in the service It seems to be more trying on a man's constitution to be loyal to the Government than it was to be a Rebel. Some how there is something about the matter that needs explanation."

CLINTON, N. C.—JAN. 9, 1890.

Mr. Silas Shoetz, the furniture merchant, an esteemed citizen and christian gentleman, died on Thursday night in his 53rd year.

Death has ruthlessly invaded many homes in the past week. Among the deaths is Mr. A. A. McKethan, Sr., who was for a long time one of the most prominent citizens of the county. He died on last Saturday night aged 81 years.

The Fayetteville Bucket company last week declared a dividend of 9 per cent for the two first nine months of its existence, and this after an immense expense. The capital stock will be developed right away.

The Observer reports that $212,000 were expended in improvements in Fayetteville during the year 1889. The report did not include small sums. This is a good showing. Factories and other industries were established, and many handsome buildings erected. There is a number of very handsome residences being built now.—Extracts from Fayetteville Letter.—Extracts from the Fayetteville Letter.

THE OUTLOOK FOR 1890.

On new year's day the New York World sent telegrams to a hundred or more prominent men in Europe and America, asking for fondest hope of each for 1890. The following is Gov. Fowle's greeting in reply:

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 31.—The progress of the State during 1890 will be very great. There is some serious distress in the eastern section on account of immense rainfall last summer, but the food crops of the State at large are ample. The crops will be at a minimum cost. There is enlarged diversification in products, increased manufacturing and hundreds of miles of new railroad and water-ways. There are perfect health, profound peace and good-will and patriotic purpose to do her share in the destiny of the great republic.

A TRIBUTE TO GRADY.

All Atlanta was filled with sor...w Wednesday. The gayety of a Christmas was eclipsed. The city wore sables. Men, women and children stood beside the bier of a citizen and sorrowed. The man to whom this spontaneous tribute was paid had been an editor. He had been earnest for the right, brave in protecting the weak, out-spoken in demanding justice for all. He had made himself a power. His influence was felt and recognized, and in his death every honest citizen felt a persanal loss. The end crowned all. All honor to the memory of the noble, warm-hearted, big-souled editor, Henry W. Grady.—N. Y. World.

The last time before this that la grippe appeared in this country was in the first days of Harrison's administration, and from the fact that Vice-President Tyler was the first person of note taken down with it it was then known as "Tyler's Gripe." If the present visitation is our punishment for electing a Harrison to the Chief Magistracy the "succession" will have to pass through the female line to Baby McKee.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

[Reg. Cor. THE CAUCASIAN.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 8th.

The new member of the United States Supreme Court, Justice Brewer, took his seat on Monday.

Senator Blackburn is the recipient of many congratulations on his unanimous renomination by the Democrats of the Kentucky Legislature. Kentucky will never be better represented in the Senate than she is at present, and the people of that State seem to know it.

The House committee on Ways and Means still continue to give daily hearings to parties interested in the new tariff. The various trusts have been well represented so far—much better than the farmers and other consumers. The Democratic members of the committee are paying strict attention to the hearings, and ask many embarrassing questions, particularly when those cheeky individuals that want the tariff raised on certain articles in which they are financially represented, are giving their views. Both Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Mills are taking copious notes, the results of which will probably be seen in masterly speeches when the bill gets before the House, which the republicans say will be in February,

County Alliance.

The Sampson County Farmers' Alliance was called to order in regular Quarterly session by President W. E. Stevens, on Friday, Jan. 3rd, 1890, at 10:30 a. m. The minutes of last meeting were read and approved. Dr. David Reid Parker then addressed the Alliance. His address was instructive and encouraging to Alliance men. The report of the Executive Committee was received and adopted. The reports of sub-Alliances showed a deficiency of funds to start a canning factory and the Secretary was instructed to return the amounts taken in stock to the sub-Alliances. Much other important business was transacted, but it was not of a nature proper to be published.

W. E. STEVENS, Pres't;
O. F. HERRING, Sec'y.

At the last meeting of the County Alliance the question of assisting the members unable to buy fertilizer was under discussion. Mr. C. E. Daniel arose and said that if he contribued to help a brother it would be to something besides the stuff called commercial fertilizers. That he would help any member buy food and clothing, but guano never. The great applause that greeted these remarks is an evidence that most of our farmers have determined to save money and permanently improve their land by using plenty of good, solid, old fashion home made manure.

Farm-yard Manure.

When a practical farmer feeds animals on concentrated feeding stuff, and applies the manure so made to the land he cultivates, he needs no chemist to protect him from fraud; he knows precisely what he is about. If he has established a scientific and skillful rotation of crops, sustained by a scientific and skillful system of fertilization, he knows that the appreciation of his land constitutes a safe investment of his earnings. In these times, when masses of capital control and have controlled legislation, the tendency has been to double the valve of these vast accumulations by severe contraction of the volume of money in existence. The prices of bread stuffs and butchers' meats are reduced to the lowest point, and to persist in their production involves continual shrinkage of the capital employed until finally it is exhausted, and the landed proprietor descends to the wage-earning class, without capacity to earn wages. He is apt to become a chronic office seeker, a tramp, a pauper, a criminal or a suicide. But the legislative policy which lowers the prices of the necessaries of life also builds up a class of rich men who in all lines of consumption will have best at any price. The opportunity is thus created for special skill in various lines of agricultural industry, and especially the animal industries. Therfore we hear that an offer of $75,000 for a two year old colt. Therefore some breeders are able to sell their yearling colts by public auction for an average of $1,000; whereas $500 is not an unusual fee for a stallion. Therefore a Kentucky stock-farm containing 150 acres was very lately sold for $105,000. Inside these extreme limits the shrewd farmer will be able to develop a live-stock business which will at least support his family, and he will accumulate small gains by the improved condition of his lands and consequent increase of their value.

The animal industries, therefore, seem to be the only branch of farming in which the outlay for commercial manures may be reduced to a minimum.—M. G. E. in National Economist.

MELEAGRIS GALLOPAVO.

If the fathers of the republic had been granted the right and power to create a truly patriotic and native American bird especially for Thanksgiving, and perfectly suited for it, they could hardly have done better than nature had already done. The turkey fills the bill. He is toothsome, he is gamey, he is wholesome, nourishing, and does not cloy. He is born at the right season, "comes in" just at the right time, is better by nature than by cultivation, and he is exclusively American. No other land has such a fowl. He is not only American, he is pan-American—that is, pan-North American. From the woods of the upper Saguenay to the forests of Florida, to speak scientifically, meleagris gallopavo is indigenous—in other words, the wild turkey was found native to the woods.

His intellect also is peculiarly American. He is a wily bird and does not give himself away without sufficient cause. He is ardent in love and savage in war, like other Americans. Like them, too, his ardor has often been the death of him; for it is only by "calling"—that is, imitating the voice of his mate—that the hunter can lure the wild turkey towards him. The practice was condemned by true sportsmen, for it was only practicable during the season when the turkey is not at his best. It is a curious fact, and known to but few in these wild turkeyless times, that the bird himself furnished the bone which served to "call" him to destruction. A single bone, about as long as one's forefinger, in each male turkey is hollow and of just the right shape for piping. With a little practice any one with an average ear can eject the breath through it in a way to make an exact imitation of the female turkey's love notes. At any rate, it is exact enough to deceive the male.

Dr. Franklin may have been joking when he suggested the turkey as the emblem of the United States instead of the eagle, but his suggestion had much to support it. The bird, as aforesaid, is native, exclusively American, wily and warlike. He is also in his native state a traveler and explorer. To the ordinary rivers the wild turkey paid little heed. The St. Lawrence and the Mississippi often baffled him, for it is rare, indeed, for a wild turkey to fly a mile. Even at his best estate he relies more on running than flying. From marked and tagged specimens turned loose after capture it has been shown that the turkey travels far. The great plains of the west barred his progress, however, as he insists on an abundance of clean running water.

Meleagris gallopavo is gone, practically extinct in most of the country, but he is tolerably well represented by Meleagris Americana—the common farmyard fowl—and in Europe the descendants of those turkeys which William Strickland, lieutenant to Sebastian Cabot, carried to England, are numbered by millions and are classified in several species and varieties. From the cradle to the grave the domestic turkey is interesting. First are the delicately tinted and lovely speckled eggs, and in caring for them the female almost resumes her wild nature. She conceals her nest with rare talent, rarely approaches it twice by the same route, and always makes a wide circuit in leaving it for the barnyard, coming in from some other direction with an innocent air that is amusing. The young are almost as tender as babies; it is in August that the growing bird begins to show what is in him. As the fruitful autumn advances he takes on the high and glossy shades of adult life, and in November is in just the right stage to be sacrificed, and most generally is. Peace to his hashes!

A LUCKY PARISIAN.

A French Soldier's Peculiar Experience with Idle Amusement to $130,000.

A remarkable incident is related of the finding of $130,000, lost by M. Pages in the Northern railway station in Paris some ten years ago. As one Ezelot, a French soldier, was walking with two comrades through the station they noticed on the floor a small package wrapped in a newspaper. They kicked it along before them for some distance, and when Ezelot was getting into the train, going home on short leave, one of his comrades, picking up the package, thrust it into the canvas forage bag slung at his side, Ezelot going on his way without having perceived the little pleasantry. Arriving at Neuilly, where his parents lived, Ezelot's mother, emptying the forage bag, discovered the bundle, but thinking it a roll of old newspapers put it on a table in the kitchen.

There it remained for four or five days, till a married sister, calling in and seeing the package, was moved by an unwonted curiosity. Opening it she discovered documents representing the £26,000, the loss of which M. Pages had advertised throughout Europe. The soldier and his parents, however, had not seen the advertisement, and not knowing what else to do, had recourse to the maire. That functionary communicating with Paris speedily brought down M. Pages, who, gladly paying the promised reward of £1,000, went off with his oddly recovered treasure. It would be an interesting supplement to the narrative if we could have a record of the feelings of the soldier who thrust this unexpected good fortune upon Ezelot when he heard the sequel to his little joke. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"To Open Them."

One of the ablest men among many able men whom the state of Maine has ever sent to the United States senate was William Pitt Fessenden. In his day there was no more ready or effective debater in the senate, although he was contemporary with Sumner, Seward, Hale and Chase.

He was a famous lawyer in Maine before he became famous as a statesman, and appeared on one side or the other of almost every important case which came before the Cumberland bar while he practiced in Portland. His father, Gen. Samuel Fessenden, was also a keen lawyer, and it was not an uncommon thing for father and son to be pitted against each other in a case.

At one time when they were on opposite sides of a certain suit, the younger man had made some points which his father could not get around, and, finding himself cornered, exclaimed angrily:

"Young man, I did not bring you up to pick my eyes out!"

"Oh, no, father!" was the quick reply; "not to pick them out, but to open them."—Youth's Companion.

Why She Could Not Comply.

There is a spicy story of a peevish old farmer who had married a young wife, and, being lately on his death bed, with his dearest beloved in attendance, was giving her directions how to go on with the management of his estate after his decease; when, after some other questions, she asked him:

"As you have been so kind as to leave the whole stock of this farm to me, it is not to be supposed that I shall be long without a number of suitors; pray, my dear, have you any desire that I should marry any particular person in preference to another, for it is my intention to act agreeably to your wishes?"

To which he very washpishly replied:

"Marry!—why you may marry the devil if you like!"

"Oh, my love," she replied, in a very tender tone, "that can't be done, for, if you recollect, my dear, it is not lawful to marry two brothers."—American.

The Crocodile's Feast.

Better far to bear the ills you know than fly to those you know not of. If the seventy-five Kaffirs at the cape who bolted from the May Queen reef to rid themselves of daily toil had borne the old adage in mind the bulk of them would have been in the land of the living today. Instead of that, some of them are in the land of the leal—perhaps—and others in a much warmer place. This is how it all happened. When said natives bolted, pursuit was hot. Black men jumped into a river, but only four out of the lot reached the other side. It was a case of crocodile first, and natives next to nowhere. The crocodiles had a high old time of it with seventy-five plump Kaffirs to feed upon. In a race for liberty a policeman may be outstripped or outmaneuvered—a crocodile never—or scarcely ever.—Cape Town Argus.

The Republic—"Her Mark."

Plain Sarah Lincoln signed a document in a very simple and old fashioned way. A friendly hand traced her name, with the explanatory words, "her mark," and Sarah then made the familiar "X."

That one mark is an epitome of the history of the republic. From such crude and simple beginnings have sprung our culture and civilization. Humble Sarah Lincoln gave to the world a son who wrote his name in imperishable letters of light on one of the proudest pages of our annals.

It is the story of the republic—out of the depths to the highest place in the temple of Fame—out of the darkness and into the light.—Atlanta Constitution.

WHAT IS SCROFULA

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or the many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be CURED

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. Some of these cures are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula, be sure to try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"My daughter Mary was afflicted with scrofulous sore neck from the time she was 22 months old till she became six years of age. Lumps formed in her neck, and one of them after growing to the size of a pigeon's egg, became a running sore for over three years. We gave her Hood's Sarsaparilla, when the lump and all indications of scrofula entirely disappeared, and now she seems to be a healthy child." J. S. CARLILE, Naumight, N. J.

Florida eclipsed! Sampson has blooming huckleberries and ripe watermelons in January. Mr. Thos. Bradshaw, of Halls' township, brought Mr. Wm. A. Johnson two ripe watermellons a few days since. One of them has been eaten. The flavor was fine. Mr. Johnson will present the other one to the Young Ladies' Cooking Club, which meets next Tuesday night.

HONEYCUTTS.

Blainey Herring, colored, of this township is equal to an emergency. He was hauling a barrel of virgin turpentine one night when the cart broke down, throwing the barrel some distance. One head was knocked out and every hoop broken or knocked off. With unusual agility and presence of mind he ran to the barrel, and throwing his long arms around it held it together till help could be called. Less than a cupful of turpentine was lost.

TAYLOR'S BRIDGE.

Mr. John Boon's little son, three years old, strolled off from home one day last week. Night came and the child was no where to be found. Quite a force of the neighborhood went out on a search with the father and found the child in the woods about 8 o'clock and a mile from home.

Mr. George Bland, formerly a citizen of this township, died in Wilmington on the morning of the 5th inst., aged about 62 years. His remains were brought from Wilmington and interred in the family burial ground near Way Cross. He was a good citizen and leaves a host of friends.

Last week we received a report of the closing exercises of Prof. Sloan's school at Taylor's Bridge, but it was too long for our columns. The exercises were good and very much enjoyed by every body present. The school has enjoyed a prosperous session and has bright prospects for the future. Prof. Sloan and his assistants are to be congratulated on the success they are making of Taylor's Bridge Academy.—ED.

MCDANIELS.

A number of young people were invited on Tuesday night, New Year's eve, to a pound party at the residence of Mrs. James Rich. But arriving there they were agreeably surprised to find that it was to the wedding of Mrs. Rich and Mr. Thos. McKenzie, Walter Draughon, Esq., officiating. An old time dance and good cheer followed.

We modestly suggest that the bachelors of this township be sold at public auction. We think some of them could be bought at a reasonable price. O. B.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. Marion Butler has consented to deliver a public lecture at New Hiram Lodge on Saturday, the 18th. The public is invited.

THE SAMPSON LIGHT INFANTRY.

W. A. Johnson Elected Captain.

At a meeting of the members of the Sampson Light Infantry on last Friday, Capt. W. L. Faison, who has been the popular and efficient Captain of the company ever since it was organized, declined a re-election on account of the confining nature of his business as Cashier of the bank. Whereupon Mr. Wm. A. Johnson was elected by a unanimous vote. We are pleased to be able to state that he will accept, for his acceptance means that the company will be enthused with new life. Messrs. T. H. Partrick and A. H. Herring were elected 1st and 2nd Lieutenants, respectively. The civil or business organization of the company is as follows: F. M. White, Chairman; P. F. Stevens, assistant Chairman; T. H. Partrick, Sec'y and Treasurer; W. A. Johnson, Matt. J. Herring and D. W. Williams, committee on finance and application for membership.

A committee was appointed to secure a more commodious hall for the armory of the Company. We think they have rented the upper story of J. E. Royal's new brick store. It will make an excellent armory. See in another column a call for a special meeting of the Company on Friday, January 17th.

Notice.

We are ready to issue certificates for special premiums to the parties to whom such were awarded. Where the premiums were shoes, hats etc., the party or parties to whom they were awarded should send us the number or size desired.

An Original Poem.

[DEDICATED BY THE "AUNTIES" TO "DUCKY FRENCH."]

The wind do blow,
The acorns fall,
The white man's hog,
He eat 'em all;

The one-eyed black snake,
Runs thro' the woods,
What a curious thing
A tarapin are?

Christmas Carol on "Uno."

[DEDICATED BY "DUCKY FRENCH" TO THE TWO "AUNTIES."]

Hark! from out the stable crack,
Peal the notes of gentle Jack,
Promptly at the dawn of day,
Warbling forth his morning lay.

The song he singeth is more old
Than "Silver Threads Among the Gold,"
The same 'twas sung long years ago
For Baalam, as you all do know.

But let him sing the old, old song
As merrily he trots along,
For thus to do he has a right,
And does it too both day and night.

South River Association.

The Union Meeting of this Association was held with the church at White Oak, December 27th, 28th and 29th. Introductory sermon was preached by Elder D. W. Tew. Isham Royal was re-elected moderator, Elder D. W. Tew assistant moderator, J. B. Downing clerk, H. C. McNeill assistant clerk. Elder F. R. Underwood, Amma Alderman and J. D. Pope were appointed Query committee.

The subjects discussed were:

1st. The essentials in the constitution of a Baptist church.

2nd. The plan of calling pastors.

The discussions were participated in by Elders Underwood, Bland, Tew and others. The discussions were instructive and a spirit of harmony pervaded the whole meeting.

A Church Covenant was read and fully explained, and its obligations impressed upon the brethren.

Elder Wm. Bland preached on Saturday and on Sunday Elder F. R. Underwood preached the Missionary Sermon. The Executive Board of the Association held their meeting, received the reports of the Missionaries and paid them for past work.

The meeting was well attended, and the good brethren and friends in the vicinity of White Oak showed a hearty welcome, both in the hospitality at their homes and the good things for the inner man, which they carried to their meeting.

A few years ago the members of this church seeing the need of a better house of worship, pulled down the old house, and with a commendable spirit, erected a new house. They now have a commodious, neat and attractive house of worship, painted, plastered, and pulpit carpeted, a good stove; all so arranged as to make both pastor and worshippers comfortable. All this is an evidence of the enterprise and progressive spirit of the good people of the White Oak section. VISITOR.

OBITUARY.

Died, at her home in South Clinton township, on Saturday, January the 4th 1890, after a long and painful illness, Mrs. C. E. Peterson, wife of Mr. Everett Peterson, aged fifty years lacking twenty days.

Mrs. Peterson was a native of New Hanover (now Pender) county, and her maiden name was Herring. She was a consistent and exemplary member of the Baptist Church at Mt. Gilead. Her funeral was preached on Sunday, the 5th inst., by Rev. J. L. Stewart, in conjunction with that of her daughter, Miss Lillie Peterson, who died suddenly on the 25th of last November. It was, indeed, a sad occasion and the large audience was deeply touched as Mr. Stewart touchingly portrayed the beautiful christian character of the mother and daughter who had been within such a short period taken away, and spoke words of consolation and sympathy to those who were left behind. All who knew Mrs. Peterson say with one voice that she was a good woman. No higher tribute can be paid her. She wrought a good work, and leaves an imperishable monument in the example which she gave of duty, purity of living, and fidelity to every obligation as wife, mother, neighbor and christian. Her memory will ever bloom in the garden of the afflicted of all who were near to her, and while they mourn her death, they rejoice that their loss is her eternal gain.

Let their highest desire be to meet her in that blessed bosom where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon dyspepsia and install instead Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c and $1.00 per bottle by R. H. Holliday. Druggist.

Dr. Frank Boyette invited in several friends last Monday evening to tea and to meet Dr. and Mrs. James Boyette. The evening was a very pleasant social occasion for those present.

A Scrap of Paper Saves Her Life.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. For fuller particulars send stamp to W. H. Cole, Druggist, Fort Smith. Trial bottles of this wonderful discovery free at R. H. Holliday's Drug Store.

SHERMAN'S ELECTION BILL.

This bill proposes to take away from the people of the Congressional districts all control over the election of their own Representatives. It offers a bribe to every State to put the choice of Presidential Electors under Federal supervision by an agreement to pay the expenses of elections so supervised. It provides for the appointment of an army of United States election officers (to be appointed by Mr. Harrison) who shall have the direction of the next Presidential election. In New York alone more than ten thousand Republican officers would possibly have the counting of votes in 1892, and if there is then a Republican Legislature the interference of the General Government will be asked and the request will not be vetoed if there is not a Democratic Governor.

What chance would there be under such a law for a free expression of the popular will? This measure should be entitled "A Bill for the Perpetuity of the Republican Party and for the Demolition of the Constitution." If it should ever become a law, as we trust it will not, the attempt would be revolutionary as it is now treacherous. Thus far its sole interest lies in the fact that it is an evidence of the disloyalty of some Republican leaders—N. Y. World.

It Builds Up Old People.

My mother, who is a very old lady, was physically broken down. The use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) has entirely restored her to health.
R. B. DILWORTH,
Greenville, S. C.

Not a Symptom in Three Years.

"Several years ago I had an attack of piles and fistula from which I suffered great pain for upwards of a year. I tried a number of remedies but none of them did me the least good. I was becoming desperate on account of so much suffering, and at length went to the drug store of Dr. J. C. Franklin, in this city, where I purchased a bottle of S. S. S. I took it according to directions and took nothing else. After taking six bottles I was entirely cured. That was three years ago, and I have not had any symptoms of piles or fistula since."
T. E. MURRAY,
Nashville, Tenn.

One Bottle Cured Him.

During the fall of 1888 I was troubled with boils breaking out all over my body, which was caused from impure bload. One bottle cured me entirely. As a blood purifier S. S. S. is the best medicine I ever used.

Drawer 3, Atlanta, Georgia.

On the day of the assassination of President Garfield by Guiteau, Findley S. Collirs, of Seymour, Indiana, wrote a letter to Jefferson Davis in regard to the matter. In reply, Mr. Davis wrote as follows: "The evil influences to which you refer as causing the bitterness felt towards the men, it may fairly be expected, will give way before the sober sense of the people if they shall, like yourself, detect the sordid motive for which stimulants are administered. I will not, like the telegram you cite in regard to the attempted assassination of the President, say I am thankful the assassin was not a Southern man, but I regret that he is an American. The crime, black enough in itself, has a deeper dye from the mercenary motive which seems to have prompted it. I sincerely trust the President may recover, and that the startling event will arouse the people to the consideration of a remedy for the demoralization which a wild hunt after office is creating.—Norfolk Virginian.

Inherited Blood Poison.

How many people there are whose distress from sores, aches, pains and eruptive tendencies are due to inherited blood poison. Bad blood passes from parent to child, and it therefore is the duty of husband and wife to keep their blood pure. This is easily accomplished by a timely use of B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm). Send to Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, for book of most convincing proof.

James Hill, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "My two sons were afflicted with blood poison, which doctors said was hereditary. They both broke out in sores and eruptions which B. B. B. promptly controlled and finally cured completely."

Mrs. S. M. Williams, Sandy, Texas, writes: "My three poor afflicted children, who inherited blood poison, have improved rapidly after a use of B. B. B. It is a Godsend."

J. R. Wilson, Glen Alpine Station, N. C., Feb. 13, 1885, writes: "Bone and blood poison forced me to have my leg amputated, and on the stump there came a large ulcer, which grew worse every day until doctors gave me up to die. I only weighed 120 pounds when I began to take B. B. B., and 12 bottles increased my weight to 180 pounds and made me sound and well. I never knew what good health was before."

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

A COINCIDENCE

The Difference

It is a noteworthy fact while the Chief Justice of the United States was delivering in the capitol at Washington on the 11th inst., in the presence of a distinguished and applauding multitude, an eulogy upon the man who was the leader in the first rebellion in that country against constituted authority, viz: George Washington, the occasion being commemorative of the inauguration of first President of the United States, at the same moment the funeral of another "rebel" was in progress in New Orleans without attracting any attention at all from the national government. Washington succeeded—Washington was a patriot; Davis failed—Davis was a traitor; Washington's war, which was a "revolution;" Davis's war, which was unsuccessful, was a "rebellion." "Rebellion," by the way, never succeeds. "Treason never prospers—what's the reason? Why, when it prospers, men don't call it treason."

Don't you see? The recent movement in Brazil, which resulted in a change of the form of government, was not in surrectionary but revolutionary, and a resolution of recognition of the new republic of Brazil has been introduced in the Senate of the United States. If the "revolution" had failed the leaders of the insurgents would have been shot and the United States Senate would have said, "served them right," —Statesville Landmark.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that Contains Mercury,

as Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucus surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do are ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine, it is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.
☞ Sold by Druggist, price 75c per bottle.

Does Experience Count?

It does, in every line of business, and especially in compounding and preparing medicines. This is illustrated in the great superiority of Hood's Sarsaparilla over other preparations, as shown by the remarkable cures it has accomplished. The head of the firm of C. I. Hood & Co. is a thoroughly competent and experienced pharmacist, having devoted his whole life to the study and actual preparation of medicines. He is also a member of the Massachusetts and American Pharmaceutical Association, and continues actively devoted to supervising the preparation of and managing the business connected with Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hence the superiority and peculiar merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is built upon the most substantial foundation. In its preparation there is represented all the knowledge which modern research in medical science has developed, combined with long experience, brain-work, and experiment. It is only necessary to give this medicine a fair trial to realize its great curative value.

The police force of New York have caught "La Grippe," but neither the mayor or the courts are willing to give it a trial.
